

Jeff Frank was indispensable in helping the Chicago Community Bond Fund receive its nonprofit status and he also helped establish the organization's state incorporation and tax filings. Just one of numerous nonprofits and collectives that Jeff helps in this way, CCBF became instrumental in freeing hundreds of people from Cook County Jail and successfully organizing to abolish cash bail in Illinois. In addition to providing behind-the-scenes organizational support and direction, Jeff is a source of invaluable personal mentorship not only to myself, but also to dozens of younger activists in the Palestinian solidarity and anti-war movements, always pushing us to connect local and international struggles.
